TC Contents I

1. Getting to know each other (Monday)

It is essential for all the participants to get to know each other but also to get to know each others' working fields, experiences and learning expectations for this TC.

During the workshop there will be a lot of experience-sharing and this sometimes can involve opening up personally as well, so it is important to create a comfortable safe space, where participants get to know each other well. Therefore, once everyone arrives on Monday morning, we will spend the afternoon getting to know everyone in the group, creating a general impression of who we are, and how we can share each others' knowledge and experience during this TC. After all, the first objective of the TC is to help participants to reflect about their own position (in life, work...) regarding gender equity.

2. Being Men and Women Today (Tuesday)

What does it mean, to be men and women in our society today? What makes us men and women?

ProCC methodology approach to gender: understanding the socio-historical relational construct of men and women

The role of women

The role of men

TC Contents II

2.Introduction to Groups and Group Coordination (Wednesday)

Places, Limits and exercising healthy authority
The role of the Group Coordinator (facilitator)
Some Group Techniques

3.Introduction to the teenage development stage (Thursday)

What is going on inside their heads?
How do teenagers and young adults build their gender roles?
Relevant elements of human subjectivity to consider during the teenage stage

4.Putting together Youth Work and Gender equity (Friday-Saturday)

Practical integration of the teenage stage, gender perspective and group coordination for daily Youth Work
Finding our own strategies and alternatives to promote Gender Equity
Evaluation and closure of the workshop

What do I need to bring with you?
